

DBU Dedicates Molnar-Jackson Gazebo

DBU recently dedicated a new gazebo on campus in honor of Mrs. Betty Jackson and her son, David Molnar, who is a 1979 DBU graduate. The Molnar-Jackson Gazebo, pictured right, has quickly become a gathering place for students and faculty alike. Pictured above at the dedication service are Betty Jackson and David Molnar (second and third from the left), along with DBU family members John Clem, Dr. Gary Cook, Adam Wright, Robert Whitfield, and Bill Rogers.

Stemming from her son's association with the school, Mrs. Jackson has become increasingly interested in aiding DBU's mission of quality Christian higher education. She and her son have provided several previous charitable donations to the school which have gone toward the school's library collection and the construction of the Patty and Bo Pilgrim Chapel, including a recent gift of nearly $200,000.
